With a career spanning over 25 years in academic research hospitals, including The Hospital for Sick Children and McMaster Children's Hospital, I have dedicated my professional life to advancing children's mental health. As the Clinical Manager of the Child and Youth Mental Health Program - Ambulatory Services at McMaster Children's Hospital, I feel creating partnerships both internal and external to the healthcare system is integral to the care we provide.

My passion lies in creating sustainable, evidence-informed systems that not only address the immediate needs of our patients but also paves the way for future advancements in mental health care. As a leader, I have always prioritized innovation, future planning, and the development of adaptable systems that can respond to the ever-changing landscape of healthcare. My involvement with various professional organizations has allowed me to collaborate internationally with like-minded professionals dedicated to making a lasting impact in our field.

Through my work, I aspire to leave a legacy where the mental health needs of children, adolescents and their caregivers are met with proactive, forward-thinking approaches, ensuring a brighter, healthier future for the next generation.
